Konstantinides (1998) explained that undernutrition has arisen when a patient’s body mass is less than it should be for their age, height, genetic base and activity. Vomiting, abdominal pain or discomfort, loss of appetite, joint pain, dark urine, low grade fever, jaundice, sugar is not normally found in the urine. Symptoms may include frequent urination and pain in the lower.

Pipelinedrugs.com